DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-9, 11-18, and 23-46 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 9-24-2007.
2. Applicant's election without traverse of claims 19-22 in the reply filed on 9-24-2007 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
4. Claim 19 recites the limitation "receiving an audible input over the channel". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. It is unclear if 'the channel' refers to 'at least one of the plurality of input channels associated with the second code' or 'another channel' cited in the claim. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 19-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Pat. No. 6,594,503 by Herzig et al, hereinafter Herzig, in view of U.S. Pat. No. 6,330,244 by Swartz et al, hereinafter Swartz.

Regarding claim 19, Herzig discloses a system, comprising:

- (a) a plurality of phone numbers (i.e. called parties) and an input channel (i.e. setting up an outgoing call to a called party; Fig. 1, 109; col. 2, lines 7-11);
- (b) a processing device (Fig. 2: 100, 130) for storing (i.e. in memory; Fig. 2, 135) an internal representation of a phrase element (i.e. keywords or phrases or identification) which can be predefined, recorded as needed, or synthetically generated on demand (i.e. recognized) (col. 2, line 65 - col. 3, line 18); and,
- (c) a scanning device (Fig. 1, 120), coupled with the processing device, for reading a first code (Fig. 1, 102; i.e. scanning in the word or identifier 'hotel') associated with the phrase element (i.e. hotel) (col. 2, line 65 – col. 3, line 18) and for reading a second code (Fig. 1, 102; i.e. scanning in the word or identifier 'Wiesbaden') associated with at least one of the plurality of phone numbers and the input channel (i.e. contacting a tourist information service center in Wiesbaden) (col. 2, lines 54-64), wherein processing device initiates to provide an audible utterance only over the channel associated with said second code and being capable of receiving an audible input over the channel (i.e. allowing a user to verbally communicate with an assistant or dialed party over the channel).

Herzig discloses a scanning device scanning in two words or codes to set up a call on a single communication channel to a Tourist Information Service Center in Wiesbaden for assistance in finding a hotel. However, Herzig does not disclose a plurality of input channels and communicating concurrently on two channels.

Swartz discloses a system, comprising:

- (a) a plurality of input channels (i.e. eight channels available for communicating with eight different phones; a user is able to switch between two calls; col. 14, line 32 - col. 15, line 3);
- (b) a scanning device (Fig. 9B, 825; col. 15, line 65 – col. 16, line 6; col. 16, lines 49-55), coupled with a processing device (Fig. 9A, 800; Fig. 9B, 800), wherein processing device initiates to provide an audible utterance only over at least one of the plurality of input channels while communicating over another channel and being capable of receiving an audible input over the channel (col. 14, line 32 - col. 15, line 3) (i.e. verbally communicating on one call while another call is on hold simultaneously).

It would have been obvious to one of the ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the method of Herzig to provide a plurality of input channels and communicating concurrently on two channels as taught by Swartz. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been lead to make such a modification to provide a processing device coupled with a scanning device that can communicate over a plurality of channels simultaneously and the user utilizing silent input to select one of the plurality of channels in order to communicate on the selected channel.

Regarding claim 20, the system of claim 19, wherein Herzig in view of Swartz discloses the processing device includes: a channel selection device (Swartz: col. 14, lines 32-55), for selecting at least one of the plurality of input channels responsive to said second code.

Regarding claim 21, the system of claim 19, wherein Herzig in view of Swartz discloses the scanning device is a barcode scanner (Swartz: col. 15, line 65 – col. 16, line 6; col. 16, lines 49-55).
